Handwritten text in a script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. The text is arranged in approximately 15 horizontal lines. The script is finely inscribed and appears to be a form of Pagan script. There are two distinct circular holes visible on the leaf, which were traditionally used for threading a cord to bind multiple leaves together into a book format. The leaf shows signs of age, including slight discoloration and wear at the edges.

Handwritten text in a script, likely Burmese, on a palm leaf. This leaf continues the text from the one above, with approximately 15 horizontal lines of inscribed script. Similar to the first leaf, it features two circular holes for binding. The script is consistent in style and density with the text on the upper leaf, suggesting it is part of the same document. The leaf is also aged and shows some surface wear.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint, illegible markings scattered across the surface. Two small, dark circular holes are visible near the center of the page, possibly from a binding process. The overall tone is warm and slightly yellowed, characteristic of old paper.

Handwritten text on a long, narrow strip of parchment, likely a fragment of a larger document. The text is written in a cursive script and is densely packed across the strip. There are two distinct holes visible, suggesting it was once part of a bound volume. The parchment is aged and shows some staining.
